A verdict in favor of Mrs Mary A Covell against the Omaha railroad for $3,150 was returned by a federal court jury.

The verdict, in sealed form, was returned Friday night at 10 o'clock, and was opened in court yesterday.

Mrs Covell, who lives at Naacra, Neb, demanded $15,000 because of injuries suffered more than a year ago when she was struck by a projecting clinker rod of a locomotive while she was standing on the station platform at Naacra.

Ten days in which to make a motion for a new trial were allowed to the defense by Judge James D Elliott.

Search for the body of Alva Mace, 11-year-old South Sioux City boy who was drowned in the Missouri river late Friday afternoon, was abandoned yesterday.

The lad was the son of Mr and Mrs Thomas Mace. After repeated blasts of dynamite had been fired, A L Mathwig, the city marshal, who was leading the search party, tried an experiment.

Bundling together several garments, he hurled them into the river at a point where the lad's body went down. The clothes sank and did not rise.

Half a mile down the river the bundle came to the surface. Convinced that the boy's body had been drawn down by an undercurrent and probably had risen to the surface hundreds of yards below, Mathwig ordered the search stopped.

Watch will be kept on the river in the hope that the body will rise to the surface at a point below South Sioux City.

Chicago Special in Sioux City Journal, 7th: Homer Rodeheaver's attentions to Miss Georgia W Jay will cost him $20,000 if the verdict of a jury read in Judge Honor's court is paid.

The climax of Miss Jay's suit against Evangelist "Billy" Sunday's "golden throated" choir leader came today when the finding was read.

The jury reached a verdict shortly before 8 o'clock last night and sealed it. The document was opened as soon as Judge Honor appeared in court this morning.

Miss Jay gasped when the finding was announced and then smiled. Her mother put her arm around her and smiled also.

Her brother Frank, who accompanied her to court, was the only member of the plaintiff's party who showed no emotion.

"I am glad," Miss Jay said. "Now they cannot say anything more about me and the whole world will understand." Rodeheaver was not in court.

One of his attorneys was present and made a motion for a new trial as soon as the result of the fight just closed was known.

"How do you like the verdict?" Miss Jay's mother was asked. "I like it fine, why shouldn't I?" she said.

"It was a fine vindication and that was what we were after. It has been worth it." Miss Jay alleged that she met Rodeheaver in Sioux City five years ago, that they became friends and that he proposed marriage to her and was accepted.

Later, she declared, he refused to marry her because marriage would interfere with his career. Taxicab rides, long strolls and discussion of future plans figured largely in the testimony of Miss Jay.

Much of the romance was carried on in Sioux City at the tabernacle of George Biederwolf, an evangelist, whose choruses Rodeheaver formerly directed, and where the repentants knelt on the sawdust floors.

Interpersed throughout the two years were concert tours, little pleasure jaunts and visits to Miss Jay's mother, Mrs Laura Jay, of 6220 University avenue, Chicago.

Sioux City Journal, 6th: The case of Mrs Mary A Covell against the Omaha railroad for $3,151 damages, which has been on trial in the federal court, was submitted to a jury at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mrs Covell was injured while standing on the station platform at Naacra, Neb, when she was struck by a projecting clinker rod of a locomotive. Injury to the bone of one of her legs is asserted.

Alva Mace, 11-year-old son of Mr and Mrs Thomas Mace, of South Sioux City, was drowned in the Missouri river yesterday afternoon while wading with a number of other children near the shore on the Nebraska side, opposite the Northwestern station.

The boy stepped into a hole and, although prompt efforts were made to rescue him, the body sank in twenty feet of water, and has not been recovered. Heroic efforts by Harold Moore, 11 years old, saved the life of Mabel Mace, 14-year-old sister of the drowned boy.

The girl in trying to save her brother, was drawn into the current and under the water by her brother

Republican Dollar Dinner.

The republicans of this state are to have a big dollar dinner at the Rome hotel, in Omaha, Monday evening, June 22nd. Senator William S Kenyon of Iowa, and Hon Frank M Currie of Broken Bow will be the speakers of the evening.

Hon A O Epperson of Clay Center will preside. Senator Kenyon is so well and favorably known, in a national way, that introductory remarks seem unnecessary.

He is a thorough going republican of the progressive type, a fluent and forceful talker, and an acknowledged leader in national politics.

State Senator Currie, has long been in the councils of his party, and is a man whom the republicans of this state are justly proud.

Officers of the county committees and Republican clubs are urged to attend this meeting. The dinner is a state wide affair and it is hoped that every county in the state will be represented.

Requests for reservations should be sent in at the earliest possible date to Mr Clinton Brome, Branties theater Bldg, Omaha.

The banquet is in charge of Amos Thomas, Edgar A Baird, Clinton Brome and Henry E Ostrom.

and was fast losing consciousness when the Moore boy succeeded in reaching her and bringing her to shore safely.

The Moore boy then made unannounced efforts to reach the struggling Mace boy, but the latter sank before he could reach shallow water.

Men working in a field near the river heard the cries of children and, surmising that someone was drowning, hurried to the river bank and arrived there just as the boy sank from sight.

Headed by Roy French, the men plunged into the water, but could not locate the body. They kept up the search until others arrived.

A search party was organized by A L Mathwig, city marshal, and the river was dragged with grappling hooks for a distance of 100 yards from where the body sank without results.

The men abandoned the search last night and prepared to dynamite the river this morning, after a strong wind had made it impossible for them to continue the work.

Children who were in the party at the time of the accident said they were wading near the shore holding hands, with the Mace boy out in the river.

He stepped into a hole and sank, and when he arose, tried to swim to shore. The current was strong at that point and he was carried outwards.

His sister and the Moore boy tried to rescue him and the girl was dragged down with her brother. The Moore boy dragged her to shore and then turned his attention to the struggling boy in the river.

He shoved his foot to the Mace boy, but the latter could not hold on to it and was carried underneath by the strong current. The parents of the boy were overcome with grief as the result of the accident, which took place a short distance from the Mace home, while the father was in Sioux City and the mother away from home.

HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

On Friday evening, May 29th the Hubbard high school gave a very creditable presentation of "The Masonic Ring," a three act comedy. The play was given as a commencement program and delighted the audience.

There was an almost continuous ripple of applause. Bernard Hartnett played the jealous husband exceedingly well. Herman Renze gave a handsome picture of the pompous detective and Benedict Long made an excellent "cousin."

As Mrs Roderick York, Mary Hart was a most charming vivacious bride, while Florence Graves shone as the sympathetic friend. Madam York, the mother, was well presented in a dignified manner by Bertha Francisco. Celia Thorne gave a characteristic portrayal of the stiff old maid sister.

As the dear old lady, Ida Fredericksen did some really strong work, and Helen Fredericksen acted the saucy Tildie in a very satisfactory way. Every one deserved commendation for their satisfactory work.

After the play Mr Anderson read Kipling's "His Wadded Wife" and then presented the high school diploma and entrance credit card of the University of Nebraska.

Those graduated were: Mary Hart, Bernard Hartnett, Celia Thorne.
